HONGKONG, TUESDAY, SEPT. 15, 1868.

CONSULS AND COOLIES. WE have already inserted a letter which was addressed to our contemporary by "Remedios & Co." accompanied by some remarks which might have implied lingering doubt as to the bona fides of the contradiction therein given to the statement that they were agents of coolie ships. Strict enquiry has, however, convinced us that though "Remedies & Co." have applied to printers in Hongkong to print coolie contracts nominally in their own behalf, and that although the representative of that firm is son of a well known coolie dealer at Macao, and nephew of the head of the firm yet to be described, they have never shipped a cargo of coolies. We therefore transfer any reflection which might have seemed to rest on them to the proper shoulders: those of the firm of which the Portuguese Consul is the head-

Messrs. J. J. dos Remedios & Co. We have already expressed the pleasure which it gave us to learn that the gentleman who represents to the Hongkong Government the dignity of Portugal was interested in coolie matters, secure as we were that the high reputation he enjoys would obtain for the Chinese naweather. Crossed the Equator on 24th tive a complete immunity from all those evils which attend the traffic as conof the Cape of Good Hope on 23rd July ducted by less scrupulous firms; but at in lat. 39.22 S.; made St. Paul's Island on the time of writing our previous remarks we had no idea of the absolute mine of knowledge which was covered by the signature of "J. J. dos R." Considering that the venerable and respectable head that firm first set in motion the law against this journal, the public will easily pardon the overwhelming interest which we evince in "J. J. dos R.'s" coolie proceedings. In the present article we do not in any way impugn their entire legality, their humanity, or even their sentimental respectability. As a mere matter of taste we might differ from the estimate formed in the "Dos" mind of coolie trading in general. It is merely in an official sense, a public sense .- in that sense in which the proceedings of public men are open to comment—that we tread on this tender ground, and it is because, not "that we love Cresar less, but that we love Rome

Statements are freely made on all sides that the venerable "J. J. dos R." is something more than the mere agent of a coolie-trading firm on the Pacific coast It is said, and the assertion is not, so far as we are aware, injurious to any ordinary mercantile firm, that vessels loaded with guano are frequently sent over here from Peru, consigned to the firm of "J. J. dos Mauritius, and between Mauritius and R." with instructions to send the ships when unladen over to Macao, there to fil up with coolie cargoes; that Messrs J. J. dos R. engage the coolie contractors; and that the venerable head of the firm, the Rennion and Mauritius on the 23rd of each estimable and honored Consul of Portugal at Hougkong, gets five dollars per 2. No alteration has been made in the | head for every coolie shipped in those vessels. Rumour, which in this case seems to be very reliable, further states that the honored Portuguese representative got so many dollars a head for each coolie shipped on board the Providenza. Now, there can be no objection to any man, even if he be a Portuguese Consul, making money in a legitimate way, nor are we prepared to say that the encouragement of emigration to Peru or to Cuba may not be consistent with principles of the highest philanthropy, and with a payment of five dollars her em! grant to the benevolent Hougkong How. ard-to wit, J. J. dos Remedios-who promotes it, who sends out his young men to preach to the heathen the inestimable advantages of emigration under his anspices-at five dollars per head. Mr Chitty says :- "A Bill of Exchange is defined to be an open letter of request from, and order by one person on another, to pay o a third, a sum of money certain mentioned in the instrument."

The words "Order for the Payment Money" in the exception under the heading "Bills of Exchange, &c." in the Schefule to the Stamp Ordinance has no legal cfinition, but was, I fancy, inserted by the Legislature to meet local usages, by exempting Comprador's orders and those orders for the payment of passage money &c., drawn on "self" or "Comprador" much used on the River Steamers, which documents, but for the exception the Schedule would, I think, require a stamp under the term "obligations for the payment of money."

THE VOLUNTEER CRISIS. It is useless to attempt to disguise fact that there is discontent of a serious kind in the volunteer world just now; discontent which has been gathering since last autumn, but the strength of which we have had no means of gauging until last week. It is true that the Wimbledon review has never been a popular field day with the force, for many reasons which it would be beside our present purpose to dwell on. It is also true that the South Western Railway Company quite outdid all its former blundering, and very nearly succeeded in stopping the review altogether by a sudden and peremptory change of all the arrangements, in the teeth of the pub lished orders of the Inspector-General, and at a time when it was too late for commanding officers to communicate with their men in the usual way. We may make large allowance for the weather, and the effect which the sensational rumours of sunsto and diarrhoes in the camp may have had in thinning the ranks. But after making all due allowances we shall still find the muster many thousands below the mark. and shall have to look a good deal deeper if we want to satisfy ourselves why scarcely more than 4,000 volunteers could be got under arms on Saturday last. Lord Napier's name alone would have brought together three times this number in any former year, and on Saturday two Royal princes were in the field as well as the conqueror of Pheodore. And yet, in spite of all attractions, there was a muster such as we have never seen before, even in the first year of the movement. It was not that there were many metropolitan corps altogetlier absent, but they came on the ground mere skeletons, so that two or three had to be thrown together to form a respectable battalion; and when formed, with a few exceptions, went through the movements in a listless, heartless manner, as if the feeling of emulation which has hitherto been so strong had died out, and the rank and

THE NEW CHINESE TREATY

(New York Tribune, July 16.) The new treaty just signed between the United States and China, though it contains no single stipulation of very great magnitude, is a remarkable evidence of the change in Chinese policy of which Mr. Burlingame is the herald. It recognises in the fullest man er that China is a member of the family of nations, and entitled as such to all the respect and immunities in its dealings with the rest of the world which are accorded by the different Powers of Christendom towards each other. It provides for the anpointment of Chinese Consuls at foreign ports, and the admission of Chinese pupils to American schools and colleges, without religious or political tests. Whenever the Em, eror may see fit to commence the construction of railroads, telegraphs, or other internal improvements, the United States will designate engineers, but our Government disclaims the right to interfere with the domestic administration of China in any way. American citizens in China shall enjoy freedom of religious worship, and shall have the privilege of maintaining schools in those cities of the empire where they may reside. The right of voluntary emigration is explicitly declared, the Coolie trade is denounced, and there is an article recognising the importance of a uniform standard of weights, measures, and coins. From this synopsis it will appear that the treaty is more important for what it indicates than for what it actually establishes. All the points embraced in it have been covered by suparate treaties with different Powers, and no privileges are accorded to the United States which have not already been granted to others. Commercial and special conventions will doubtless be made hereafter; the present instrument seems designed mainly to establish the place of China in the international confederation, and to ratify the arious agreements which she has made with our representatives at one time or another. One of the greatest difficulties in the way of satisfactory intercourse between China and the Western world has been the difficulty of determining just how China was stand in relation to the Outside Barparians. But this treaty removes the obstacle entirely. It recognises the equality and brothe lood of nations, and expresses the desire of China to enter into close commercial and diplomatic intercourse with the rest of the world. What results must follow from this wonderful revolution we need not stop to guess, but they can hardly fail to be mangificent. It is gratifying to reflect that American common sense and fair dealing (?) have brought about a change in the policy of the venerable empire of the East, which Great Britain and the other Eur pean Powers failed to enforce by repeated wars. The treaty Powers extorted from China the privilege of trading at certain ports, of travelling through the interior, of sending embassies to Pekin; but the Saturday Review, in a waspish article on Mr Burlingame's mission. complains that the favours they secured with so much pains are gradually slipping through their fingers, and dreads that they may not be recovered without another war. The experience of the last few years, we should think, ought to have convinced even the Saturday Review that the bombshell policy is a bad one, and that if Engnust deal as honestly as we do (?) English statesmen, at any rate, see this, and will welcome the embassy as heartily and cooperate with it as truly as our own Government is doing. The old-fashioned British way of entering a foreign kingdom, by cracking the skull of anybody who tried to bar the door, we trust has been finally savours which will not slip through their fingers, they must get them in the Ameri-
